Battery D's 'Little UN' Gives Blood in Remembrance of War

Two German Aliens Know Miracle Of Blood

It isn't likely that a receiver of a pint of blood worries too much about its history or where it came from. He needs it and he gets it; that's enough for him.

But sometimes there's more to it than just getting a needle jabbed into one's arm and watching a jar fill up with bright red blood.

But two pints of blood left here last week through the Armed Forces blood donor program which, no matter how they end, the known half of their story is worth telling.

The donors of these two pints of blood are both German aliens, Dorwood Blumenshein, 21, and Hans Feddern, 23; basic trainees in Battery D, 515th FA Bn.

Feddern's recent trip to the blood center qualifies him as a walking blood bank. It was the sixth time he had donated blood.

Blumenshein had never given blood before, but he had seen what miracles plasma and whole blood transfusions could perform.

These two men are part of Battery D's "Little United Nations"; two of nine aliens in the fourth platoon, all of whom have seen their native lands ravaged by war. But few of them feel free to talk of what they have seen.

Feddern and Blumenshein both came to the United States with the intention of becoming citizens. Both were employed for a short time as auto mechanics. The similarity in their stories ends there.

Feddern is not new to military life. Several times during his early teens he was pressed into training by the German Army and released for various reasons.

At 16 he was called by the SS, but at the last minute his orders were revoked. When the Allied Forces entered his native town of Itzehoe a few miles from Hamburg, he was in training there with home-based German Infantry units.

Three times during those hectic years he was in and out of the Army he made voluntary blood donations to German hospitals. He answered calls for donations twice after the war.

"Then last year I had enough money to do what I'd been wanting to do ever since the war ended. I quit my job in the grocery store and came to the United States."

"I arrived in New York on the Fourth of July."

Unlike Feddern, Blumenshein is getting his first taste of military life, but not his first of America. Born of German-American parents in Mainz on the Rhine, not far from Frankfurt, he had been in the States twice prior to returning here for good in 1947.

Blumenshein saw the miracles worked by blood and plasma transfusions on victims of the bombings of Frankfurt.

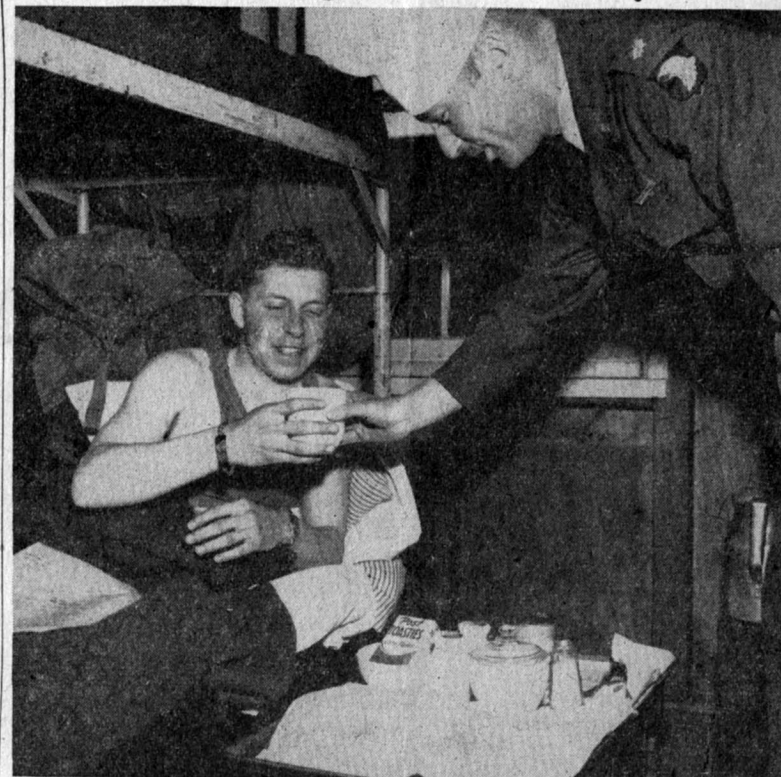

"I don't know whether a person who has not seen these things can realize just how wonderful it is or how much a pint of your blood can mean to someone else," he said.

The spirit of cooperation and readiness shown by Blumenshein and Feddern is typical of all of the members of Battery D's Little United Nations, Capt. Harry R. Maifield, battery commander, said.

"Maybe it's because most of them have seen service in one Army or another," he added. "Maybe it's because they have been involved more than most of us in the big problems of war and peace. They're among the best we've got here. I'll put them up against any group of men I've ever seen at the same stage in their training."

"If the fellow who gets their blood has any ideas about good blood and bad, maybe it'll help him to know he's getting the best."

Cream and Sugar Please, Major

Service with a smile is the motto of Major Lewis A. Fletcher, battalion commander of the 502nd Abn. Inf. Reg't., as he serves Pvt. John Walenty of Co. K breakfast in bed. The service is a reward for Walenty's contribution of $101.00 to the recent Red Cross campaign.

"Put Money To Better Use" Walenty Gives $101 to R. C.

Pays Back Service Red Cross Gave To Friend Last War

The old saying that one good turn deserves another worked out for Pvt. John Walenty, Co. K, 502nd Abn. Inf. Regt., last week.

QUIT THAT CUSSIN'

In the old Army cussin' was a more or less time honored tradition reserved for old soldiers and sergeants. However, modern armies have found out that the good old democratic way of treating a man as though he were a man and not just a number has paid off. In our Army, composed mostly of civilians drafted to fight for their country, it is imperative that they be treated with the respect and honor which is their Constitutional right.

With the proper knowledge of a job combined with plain horse sense, understanding and firmness on the part of instructors and cadre there isn't any need of profanity or filth. Your job is to make fighting men. The best way to do that is to be a man yourself.

Walenty turned over $51.00 of his trainee pay to the Red Cross. With the $50.00 he had donated a month earlier, that made him the highest donor on the post.

He got his reward a few days later when his battalion CO, Major Lewis A. Fletcher, personally served the 21-year-old trainee breakfast in bed. Walenty's company commander followed that up with a three-day pass.

Walenty explained his first donation as payment for services the Red Cross had given to a friend who was wounded in Europe during World War II.

"I think the Red Cross can put that money to better use than I can," he said.

Some of Walenty's fellow-trainees speculated that he is probably the highest enlisted donor to the Red Cross drive on any post in the States.

A few of them conclude that whatever Walenty's reason for the huge donation, it was probably more than worth it to have a major serve his breakfast tray. Walenty answered that one with a shrug.

"Maybe I just live right," he said.

Army Outlines Change In EM Promotion Plan

Washington (AFPS)—In a new circular (Cir. 25) the Army has outlined the ways in which it is tightening its enlisted promotion program.

In addition to the policy that no promotions may be made in the first four pay grades without prior approval of the major command concerned, a number of other changes are listed. They are as follows:

1. Personnel must occupy an authorized vacancy within the major command in either the grade to which promotion is considered or a higher grade for period of time listed: Korean combat zone—one month. Rear area Korean combat zone—two months. All other areas outside of Korea—three months.
2. Suspension of the provision for the promotion of noncoms in infantry table of organization units regardless of major command ceiling.
3. Suspension of the provision for the promotion of permanently assigned personnel to E-3 after six months in E-2 and E-4 after 12 months in E-3 or 30 months service.
4. Suspension of the provision for promotion of combat-injured patients.
5. Suspension of the provision for promotion of cadre personnel.
6. Suspension of the provision for the promotion of personnel for extraordinary or heroic combat action without regard to major command ceilings.
7. Suspension of the provision for the promotion of selected officer candidates.
8. Suspension of the provision for the promotion of enlisted personnel who successfully complete 18 weeks or more duration in a specific MOS to E-3. However, successful service school graduates who are assigned to E-3 or higher position vacancies may be promoted without regard to time-in-position vacancies.

R. C. Drive Hits All Time High

Can't say the personnel of this Post aren't on the ball when it comes to giving money to the recent Red Cross Drive.

According to a report last week from Lt. Col. Ernest E. Johnson, chairman of the drive here, $20,905.82 has been collected thus far, $4,000 over last year's total.

Five Regiments have passed the 100 per cent marker and are still giving. The 53rd Regiment leads the pack with $5,427.45 and the 502nd is running a very close second with $5,281.28 to their credit.

Other units topping the 100 per cent goal are the 515th Field Artillery Battalion, the 506th Regiment and the Breckinridge Chapter of the American Red Cross.

All unit commanders have been urged to insure that every effort is expended toward such a goal during the remaining few days of the drive.

Weekend in Evansville

The Screaming Eagles of Coach Nelson Bryant will play the Evansville Braves in Evansville this Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. at Bosse Field.

The all-new "Ice Vogues of 1952" opened last Wednesday at the Owensboro Sportscenter for a six-day engagement. The musical ice revue will present an internationally noted cast of 75 figure skaters in a two and one-half hour show.

Marie Wilson and Groucho Marx will open at the Carlton this week in "A Girl in Every Port."

Again this week we find the Town Room of the Vendome Hotel the favorite hangout of many Breckinridge soldiers. And why not, with Irving Day furnishing the music. . . .

Sgt. Hunter Killed

Sergeant Robert Hunter, 25-year-old soldier from Johnston, Ill., was reported killed in an automobile accident last Thursday while driving home.

Hunter was a cook for Item Company, 502nd Airborne Regiment, and a Korean war vet. The accident happened at Junction City, Ill.

EASTER IN EVANSVILLE

Easter at the Servicemens' Center in Evansville, Ind., last week was one that reminded one of home with all the Easter eggs and Easter feeling about the Center.

Mrs. Jeanette Havens, director of the Center, arranged a very fine buffet supper for the soldiers of Breckinridge. Before the buffet supper, a Juke Box dance was held and prizes of free passes to Loews, Grand and Carlton theaters were won by the following servicemen:

Pfc. Edward J. Krawczynski
Baltimore, Maryland
Pvt. John S. Reece
Libertyville, Illinois
Pvt. William E. Winans, Jr.
Chicago, Illinois

The Center is open daily from 8 to 8 and stays open much later on the weekend. The food at the Snack Bar is terrific, and very easy on one's pocketbook if one happens to be in the Army.

10. Suspension of the provision for the promotion of successful graduates of the Ranger Course.

In exceptionally meritorious individual cases commanders of general officer grade or commanders in positions usually held by general officers may waive time-in-position requirements provided that a vacancy exists within the major command ceilings.

Specifically the new policy has resulted in the suspension of a number of paragraphs in both SR 615-25-40 and SR 615-25-50. They will remain suspended until further notice.

The Army hopes, however, that it will be able to loosen up the restrictions when the first large numbers of inductees begin to leave the Service, possibly in the fall.

On a children's quiz show a boy about seven was before the microphone. "It's man's best friend," began the M.C., "and the word begins with 'D.'"

Water Boy... by Don Plarski

According to the latest rumors, a new lighting system will be installed on the post athletic field sometime within the next month and a half. The project will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $27,000. That means most of the Screaming Eagles' baseball games in the future will be played under the lights. Which should make for larger crowds. Scheduling of weekday games is unfortunate for trainees. They seldom have time to watch a game throughout the week. The only way for them to attend is for 'em to come as a company, such as they did for the Notre Dame and Indiana games last week. And the way they turned out for those games was a brightening note, indeed. All the seats in the stands were taken and the boys flooded the foul lines and edges of the outfield. So, come the night games, there should be plenty of fans for the Eagle contests. Besides, with no roof to hide the sun, Ole Sol can be on the warm side along about the middle of July.

The Pro Touch

Two of Camp Breckinridge's toughest games of the season are upcoming in the next two days, when the Screaming Eagles play a two-game, home and home series with the Class B Evansville Braves. Saturday's game will start at 1400 hours on the post athletic field, while Sunday afternoon at Bosse Field in Evansville, the second game also begins at 1400 hours. Rumors from Myrtle Beach, S. C., site of the Braves' spring training home, have it that the proteges of Bob Coleman may have a surprise in the Three-I League this coming season. Some of the well-seasoned vets from last year's team are returning, among them first sacker Harry Warner, second baseman Joe Della Monica, outfielder Lucky Vital, and pitchers George Yorke and Charley Moore. Along with these come some highly touted rookies, who are being geared for future berths with the parent Boston Braves. All in all, the pros should be Breckinridge's toughest to date. If you're spending a weekend in Evansville, drop over to Bosse Field Sunday afternoon. The game promises to be one of the best yet.

Memories

Getting back to the new lighting system, Camp Breckinridge's football team will have night games this coming season. One of the teams on the schedule is Ft. Jackson, S. C., the team that shellacked the Eagles last year, 67-7. That's a burning memory the boys haven't forgotten. Things like that can be remembered for a year.

Sure Enough

To those who didn't know it, the lad that played left field for Notre Dame last week was Jim Mutscheller. Mean anything? It should, if you follow college football. He was captain of the Irish eleven and was an All-American last season. He played end and though he stood around 6-1, he was one of the best all-around gridders on the team. He wasn't a bad sticker. Got two of the five Notre Dame hits, one of them a double.

Planning To Fly Anywhere? If So, Better Read This

Numerous instances have been reported recently to the Department of the Army of unscrupulous practices by ticket vendors for some non-scheduled airlines which are costing many military personnel money, time, and other inconveniences.

These practices can also mean trouble for you. There is no redress available through the Army for any losses suffered at the hands of these people. Be careful what airline you do business with.

After romping over Eastern Illinois State college, 10-3, and Evansville college, 15-0 with two cancellations thrown in because of inclement weather, the Eagles registered a 4-1 triumph over the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame on April 9th.

The second game of the series with Notre Dame was rained out and after a day's layoff Breckinridge returned to action by sweeping a two-game series from Indiana, 8-2 and 1-0.

The Eagles' record remained at 5-0 after the cancellation of last Monday's scheduled game with Wheaton college because of rain and cold weather.

Tom Acker became the first Eagle pitcher to go the nine-inning route in the Notre Dame game as he limited the Irish to seven hits. Acker yielded five of the safeties in the first three innings and then settled down.

Coach Nelson Bryant's Eagles put the contest away in the first frame with a four-run uprising against curve-balling Tom Bujnowski and Catcher Dick Farrell, a walk and hits by Burt Stone, Gerry Thomas and Joe Unfried contributing to the scoring.

Second Baseman Stone and Shortstop Art West led the Eagles' nine-hit attack with two bingles apiece. Acker fanned nine as he won his second game of the campaign, running his strikeout total to 19 in 15 innings.

Jim Graves, hard-working right-hander, and Dick Knabe throttled Indiana on eight hits as the Eagles took advantage of nine Hoosier errors and clubbed three pitchers for 10 mits in the opener of the series with the Indiana collegians.

The Dreamer . . . by Moore

By ROGER F. DREYER

Last week a story appeared in the BRECKINRIDGE NEWS about the Senate giving the Go sign on the pay hike and combat bonus. The story was released through the Armed Forces Press Service, Washington, D. C.

I received several calls concerning the story. The thing puzzling the G.I.'s was the $2.75 authorized for enlisted personnel to mess off-post.

The callers couldn't believe it. It was considerable more than paid the EM now ($1.05). However, if one would look into the story in more detail, it would make the whole matter much simpler.

The pay bill was first brought up before the House as a 10 per cent across-the-board increase for both pay and allowances. Then it was sent to the Senate. The Senate knocked it down some. Keep in mind at this time that during all this, it is still a bill and has a long road to go before being put into effect as a law.

* * *

The Senate changed the original bill so that the House didn't ever know it was the same bill. And after it comes out of the joint conference, neither the House nor Senate will know it. Then it must go back through the House to be approved and then sent on to the Senate for approval.

There is little likelihood that a final version of either bill will be passed in April, but the latest reports say May is the month for final passage of both bills.

With political convention time fast approaching, it appears that Congress may begin to put on pressure for passage of important pending legislation sometime before the end of May.

The BRECKINRIDGE NEWS as stated on the front page will come out with eight pages next week. A classified ad section will also appear in the interest of personnel of the Post. Rates will be something like $.75 for three or four lines. Watch the NEWS for further information.

Also on tap is a series of cartoons by Sergeant Ned Moore of Special Services called the "Dreamer."

Another feature the BRECK NEWS will carry is a series of photos by Arthur Schatz. He's done work for LIFE, LOOK and several other large publications.

I sat in the room of the McCurdy Hotel overlooking the raging Ohio River last Saturday watching Luke Easter, Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians and Gail Henley of the Giants playing Black Jack on the bed.

I talked with them about the year the Indians won the pennant and the big Press party Bill Veeck held and what a banner year it was for the Indians.

"If you're Editor of the paper out there at Breckinridge, you should know Tom Aker," Larry Doby said. "He's a fine ball player."

The Indians and the Giants are the teams picked to meet in the World Series come September.

Officers Due For Release In May

Washington (AFPS)—Army officers who have had their terms of service extended involuntarily for 12 months by presidential directive may be released immediately from active duty, providing they do not volunteer for additional service.

The announcement came in the form of DA Message 316362. Officers affected will be those currently in category V. This category consists of those officers who were involuntarily extended after the expiration of their original categories.

They may, however, elect to stay on active duty by changing their categories to II or III. Or they may stay on for the remainder of their 12-month period if they elect to do so in writing.

Separation will be effected for officers in the continental U.S. who so desire on or before May 20. Those overseas will be brought home and separated not later than June 20.

YES, $1,214.00

A sky high sum of $1,214.00 was donated to the Red Cross Drive recently by George Company of the 502nd Airborne Regiment.

The 24 men of George Company who gave $30 each will be served breakfast in bed Sunday morning by Colonel Thomas M. Tarpley, the regiment commander.

"The Company is now leading the Division in the Red Cross Drive and more money is still coming in," states Captain Peter Z. Schere, Company commander.

"We just asked them to give and they gave," the captain said.

The meanest man, anywhere: Put a tack on the electric chair.

An eastern city dweller was out west in Arizona for his health. Approaching an old timer he asked: "Say, what's the death rate around here?"

"Same as it is back east, Bub," came the answer, "one to a person."

Deer Hunting In Canada Out

Those planning to spend their leave hunting deer in Canada this year had better think twice before doing such.

Foot-and-Mouth disease has been reported raging more recently in Canada along with several South American countries. This disease is the greatest threat to the welfare of livestock in the United States.

It is prohibited by law to import into the United States cattle, sheep or other domestic ruminants or swine or fresh, chilled or frozen meat from wild ruminants such as deer, or any part of or secretions derived from such animals from countries where Foot-and-Mouth disease is known to exist.

In other words, G.I.'s or anyone hunting deer in Canada this year will be prohibited by law to bring the big game back into the States with them because of the threat of the Foot-and-Mouth disease.

The Foot-and-Mouth disease is a very highly contagious infection and in most cases the cattle or swine infected must be killed.

Baseball!

Catcher Bob Pottenger's triple highlighted the Eagle offensive. Breckinridge took a 5-0 lead in the first three innings and coasted in.

The Saturday morning game with Indiana evolved into a brilliant pitching duel between Don Minnick of the Eagles and the Hoosier's Don Colnitis and Bert Weber. The two teams whipped through the 1-0 shut-out in an hour and 50 minutes.

Minnick yielded only three singles, one a safe bunt, as he ran his string of scoreless frames to 12. He allowed hits in the fourth, fifth and ninth, walked two men and faced only 26 hitters officially.

Breckinridge pushed over the winning run in the fifth against starter Don Colnitis when Thomas doubled to left with one down and scored on Unfried's line single to right. The Eagles collected seven hits in the contest, two by Thomas.

No Easy Way to Heaven

Life is but the pilgrimage of a soul. Its destination within the command of the individual himself. What is most important therefore is how well we fit ourselves to continue after this life in the high adventure of eternal life.

"You will not yawn yourself into heaven." And, "you will not be carried there lying at ease upon a feather bed." The path is often hard. Christianity has nothing to do with "the line of the least resistance." Rather, it says, "Enter ye in at the strait gate for narrow is the way that leadeth to life, and few there be that find it."

O God, may grace be given us, to climb the steep ascent of Heaven, through peril, toil and pain.

"Set down my name, Sir, for I have looked this whole thing in the face; and cost me what it may, I mean to get to Heaven."

Ch. Francis De Bilio
